House Tax in NDMC area increased

Come 2014 and owners of individual properties in the New Delhi Municipal Council area will see an increase in their house tax by 20 per cent.

According to a proposal passed by the civic agency, the per unit rate has been increased to Rs.1,200 from Rs.1,000 which the residents were paying till now.

The house tax will be levied from the coming financial year on individual covered property spread over an area of more than 200 square metres.
