‘Welcome suggestions to improve city’

The State government is willing to accept suggestion from any one with experience to improve Bengaluru, Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy said on Thursday.

Responding to a question on scrapping of an expert committee, he said, “We did not feel the necessity to have the expert committee and, hence, we scrapped it. We are ready to take suggestions from whoever is ready to share with us.”

On providing a government post to Infosys co-founder N.R. Narayan Murthy, whom he met some time ago, he said that no decision has been made in this regard. “We will take his suggestions. However, considering his age factor and busy schedule, taking such a (government post) responsibility is difficult.”
